CYMMRODORION.

OUR readers will see, in another part of this Number, a notice of the "Memoirs," which we stated in our last to have been received by this Society from the "Royal Society of Antiquarians" at Paris. The communication, accompanying them, we now find, was of no general interest, but a mere official note from the secretary of the Institution. The Cymmrodorion, we are happy to add, are about immediately to open a correspondence with all other Societies, whether at home or abroad, whose pursuits have any congeniality with their own.

The very able Librarian of this Institution is now preparing a full and explanatory catalogue of the MSS. we noticed last month as recently purchased by them, to be inserted in their next Report

GWYNEDDIGION.

THE wrapper of the present Number announces the subject for the next annual prize poem of this Society to be "The Ancient Customs of the Cymry, including, amongst others, bardism, singing with the harp, and festive games." The successful candidate will be declared at the next Eisteddfod at Brecon.

The following is a list of the Officers of the Gwyneddigion for the present year :—
